WEEKLY REPUBLICAN—1887.
JULY PUBLIC LEDGER—1888.TWO MAYSVILLEANS
GO THROUGH MANY BATTLES TOGETHER

James Gilbert and Everett Florence,
Although Under Draft Age, Volunteer and See the Worst of the Fighting With the First Division.

James Gilbert and Everett Florence, two employees of the Maysville Cotton Mills, have just returned home having received their honorable discharges at Camp Zachary Taylor last week.

When the United States and Germany went to war both of these young men wanted to get into the thick of the fight but they were too young for the draft and instead of waiting until the draft should reach their age, they jumped in immediately by volunteering. Both of the young men were placed in the First Division and they saw the greatest part of the entire war. Their discharge papers show that they took part in the first fighting in the Toul sector. They were also in the following battles: Cantigny, Soissons, second battle of the Marne, Argonne Forest and St. Mihiel. Besides these conflicts they were one and one-half months with the Army of Occupation in Germany.

The young men left Maysville together; they were assigned to the same company and remained together during the entire time they were abroad. Gilbert was gassed and was compelled to spend some time in a hospital but Florence came through the whole thing without a scratch. He got a little too much gas at one time but it only made him sick for a short time.

These boys were little known about Maysville when they left but they have probably as good a war record as any man in this whole section.

Miss Florence Wilson, teacher in the Center Graded Schools, is confined to her home in Limestone street on account of illness. Mrs. W. J. Caplinger is her substitute.

Mr. J. B. Strickland, buyer for the J. P. Taylor Tobacco Company, is spending his vacation in the country recovering from an attack of influenza which left him somewhat disabled.

NEW MISSISSIPPI RIVER
STEAMER TO RUN EXCURSION

Verne Swain, sidewheel Mississippi River Excursion Steamer, Coming to Maysville For Excursion In Short Time.

Captain W. T. Cosgrove, who for the past two seasons has been in charge of the publicity for the excursion steamer Homer Smith, was in Maysville Monday making arrangements for two excursions for the new sidewheel steamer Verne Swain out of the Mayville harbor.

Captain Cosgrove has been with the Swain all of this season and he says he is by far the best excursion steamer in the middle West. The boat is practically new and has been used for excursions on the Mississippi. She is all steel and has the best dancing pavilion of any steamer afloat, there being no posts of any kind on the whole of the floor.

The Verne Swain will make her maiden trip out of the Maysville harbor on the evening of Friday, May 23, for a moonlight trip and on Sunday, May 25, she will run an excursion from this city to Cincinnati and return.

CINCINNATI CONCERN TO OPEN BRANCH STORE HERE

Mr. J. C. Melgone, representing the C. F. Adams Company, of Cincinnati, has been in Maysville for several days making arrangements to open a branch store in this city. He has rented the Debolt property in West Second street and expects to open the local store within a few days. The new concern specializes in draperies and curtains.

LIEUT. PARKER ARRIVES
HOME SUNDAY EVENING

Lieut. Preston P. Parker, who was with the A. E. F. through all of the fighting in France, arrived in Maysville Sunday evening having been finally discharged from the service. Although he was severely gassed in the war, Lieut. Parker is in very good health and very glad to get home again.

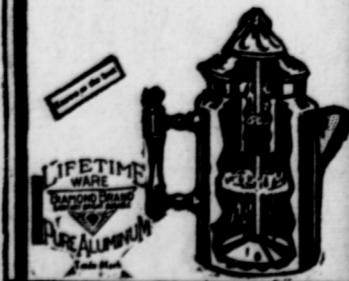

Mr. J. T. Kackley, local agent for the Edison phonograph, is in Cincinnati today to attend a convention of Edison dealers.

BIG FARMERS MEET TO BE HELD HERE IS FOR STATE'S BENEFIT

Bankers and Louisville Board of Trade Unite to Make Farmers' Chautauqua Really Worth While to All the State.

The proposed three days chautauqua for the farmers throughout the state of Kentucky to be held in the various counties of the state during the coming summer has the hearty co-operation of local business men identified with the State Bankers' Association and the State Department of Agriculture. The plans are being handled through a special committee of which Col. James Speed, of Louisville, is chairman. Mr. N. S. Calhoun, of the Bank of Maysville, who is also chairman of the State Bankers' Association's Executive committee, is very much interested in seeing the Chautauqua all over the state a success. Messrs. George Kirk, County Agent, Carl Dodds, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and all county officials are much interested.

The following from the State Bankers' Journal gives some idea of the plan:

A plan for rural development in Kentucky through educational tent meetings in sixty counties and a survey of rural life conditions, was launched about the first of the year under the direction of a committee of the Board of Trade of Louisville. After this movement had been gotten under way, the committee met the Louisville Clearing House Association and asked that the Kentucky Bankers' Association be asked to co-operate in the work.

The Clearing House was so impressed with the undertaking that the Executive Committee of the Bankers' Association was asked to meet in Louisville to consider the proposition.

The committee met at the Seelbach the 23d of April, and after due consideration of the matter, decided to co-operate with the Board of Trade in this campaign for the betterment of the State. At this meeting a committee of three was appointed to solicit funds from the bankers of the State, also to co-operate with the committee of the Board of Trade which is handling the whole campaign.

The committee appointed was as follows:

Messrs. J. C. Cardwell, John W. Barr, Jr., and H. G. Smith.

That the bankers of the State may understand the strength of the movement, it is merely necessary to give a list of the men who are serving on this State Development Committee. The names follow:

Messrs. Robert W. Bingham, Chairman; Charles F. Huhlein, Vice-Chairman; John M. Atherton, A. T. Hert, John B. McFarran, Wood Crady, E. W. Hines, H. D. Ormsby, F. M. Sackett, James Speed, Foster Embry, Lewis Humphrey and Charles Segner.

The following extract from the Board of Trade Journal of April 19th, will give the busy reader an idea of how the campaign is to be carried out:

"It will have the backing of many of the most influential men in the city and State and the co-operation of the United States Department of Agriculture, the State Department of Agriculture, the College of Agriculture, and its Extension Department, the State Department of Education, Roads and Health, Kentucky University and the State Normal School."

"The actual educational work will be gotten under way early in July and will continue through August and into September. It is planned to have a three days' tent meeting in each county. These farmers' community meetings will be in progress in three counties at the same time, and the programs will be rotated in such a way that it will be possible to use the same corps of instructors for all meetings. In this way it is expected to conduct meetings in sixty counties before the end of the summer."

"Following these schools the committee hopes and expects to have one of the Eastern Research Bureaus to conduct an exhaustive survey of various counties in the State and then to make a report on each county which may be made the basis of a campaign of improvement."

Under the auspices of the Mason County Holstein Association and thru the co-operation of the National Holstein Association a free dairy show opened Monday at Mike Brown's big store on Square Deal Square. The large windows at the store contain a demonstration showing the relative food value of milk as compared with the other common used foods.

While the demonstration is chiefly to interest persons in milk as a food, of course, the Holstein boosters are showing the value of the Holstein cow as a milk producer over the other breeds of cattle.

The whole show is very interesting and should be attended by every farmer and farmer's wife and children who come to the city during the week. The window is full of catchy lines and cards.

Try a second and even a third glass of nice cool, sweet milk down town, or at your home, every day. Let the children, the rest of the family, and your guests go likewise. It will prove most refreshing, during the warm days, as well as most nourishing and stimulating. Milk is a wonderful food for a tired body, overworked brain, or straining nerves.

It is more than a mere drink, it is "liquid meat," so great is its food value. Use more milk daily in the home and less meat, especially in warm weather. Heavy meat eating, at this time, proves detrimental to the well-being of most people. The milk produced by the Holstein-Friesian cow is well suited to everyone. Try it in your home.

DRANK LIQUOR TO WARD OFF GERMS

Fell Under Car Wheels in Adams County and Now Asks for Big Damages.

William B. Freeman, through his attorney, A. G. Turnipseed and J. Thomas Hoffman, Saturday filed in the Adams county common pleas court at West Union, Ohio, a $25,000 damage suit against the N. & W. Railroad for personal injuries.

In his petition, plaintiff says that on October 18, 1918, he was a regular passenger on the road from Cincinnati to Mineral Springs. He recites that at that time a severe epidemic of Spanish influenza was raging throughout that section and he alleges that in order to ward off any germs which might be floating about where crowds of people were congregated, he had drunk alcoholic liquor and being seated in a warm car he became intoxicated to such an extent that he was unable to take care of himself.

He charges that the employees on the train were aware of his helpless condition when the train reached Mineral Spring; that they helped him from his seat to the platform of the car and down the car steps to the station platform, where they left him standing and holding to the handle of the car. That when the train started he was drawn under the wheels and his left leg crushed so that amputation was necessary, and that his right leg and foot were crushed to such an extent that they are useless.

The plaintiff, in his petition, charges that the defendant company was in the fault and negligent in failing to put him in a place of safety before starting the train.

RIVER WILL GET LOWLAND
GARDENS IN THIS DISTRICT

Although weather forecasters say we will not have anything like a serious flood in the Ohio river valley, the stream has been rising rather rapidly for the past couple of days and gardens in the lowlands in this district will suffer much from the rise.

FORMER STUDENTS

INTERESTING MEET

Arrangements Being Made to Have Great Gathering of Members of Alumni Association Here on Friday, June 6—SOLDIERS to Be Honored.

Old M. H. S. has been greatly honored during the great world war just closed by having a great number of his sons marching under the colors as officers and privates and as introductory to Commencement week, the Maysville High School Alumni Association is planning a great meeting of former students at the High School on that evening of Friday, June 6th.

This meeting will be especially in honor of the Maysville High School boys and girls who served during the war but it will be also a general get-together affair for all old students.

Arrangements are being made to have a very interesting musical program which will likely include a concert by the Boys' Band and Hon. C. D. Newell, '76, will be asked to deliver an address in honor of the M. H. S. sons and daughters who served their country during the war while Hon. Stanley F. Reed will deliver an address on reconstruction.

Details of the meeting are now being worked out by the new officers of the Alumni Association with the cooperation of the school authorities and there is every reason to believe that this will prove a very interesting and most helpful meeting.

OUR POLICY

To support such measures as are unquestionably for the good of Mason County as an entire community, rather than such propositions as are in favor of the individual interest, or of one section as against another. And likewise to earnestly and consistently oppose all things that are not for the good of the County as a whole.

RURAL JOURNALISM

Rural journalism would be an even greater force in the world than it is today if more of the editors and publishers of country newspapers had a clearer and better conception of their potential power. The fault with many is that they are content to follow in the footsteps of others instead of being the leaders of local thought and action that they should be.

That the country newspaper with an able editor at the helm is a force not to be denied, the politician and others with only selfish motives in mind well know. What the rural editor is, or should be, and the position he ought to occupy in his community is well told by J. B. Parker, editor and publisher of the Times, Conway, Ark., in the following editorial from a recent issue of that excellent weekly:

"While some metropolitan newspapers poke fun at the country editors, as publishers of rural weekly newspapers are termed, the big city editors as a class are known to but very few of their readers and have little influence with the public.

"True, their opinions will attract considerable attention, but it is merely a passing notice.

"The rural editor, as a rule, is known personally to almost every citizen in the county. He is a neighbor and very often a close friend of the people with whom he mingles every day, sharing their joys, their sorrows, their disappointments, and their interests.

"He is part of their very existence, and he is quite often their only guide and philosopher. They know him and he knows them, and there is a link between them is welded by confidence.

"The country editor is free from the deterring influences that permeate the office of the metropolitan publisher, who not infrequently is linked with public and personal affairs and politices that warp his judgment and sometimes enslave him so completely that he cannot voice anything save that which will be best for the selfish interests in which he has become entangled.

"The rural editor is in touch with the interests of his neighbors, and those interests are not merely local—they embrace the life of the nation and the makeup and conduct of the government.

"Being removed from the entangling alliances that always develop in metropolitan centers, the rural publisher has a freer range of thought and his action is untrammeled by influences and situations that involve the metropolitan editors. Therefore, his study and conviction is likely to be more patriotic, and his opinions carry greater weight with the people.

"Too many country editors belittle their commanding position as publishers. They fail to grasp the importance of their influence and are content to trail when they should lead.

"No better illustration of the power of the rural weekly newspaper can be found than is shown by the records in connection with the successful conduct of the four Liberty bond campaigns.

"It was the great army of rural weekly newspaper editors that molded public opinion to the support of our government by the people and their patriotic subscribing to the loan drives.

"During the tragic days of the war when American soldiers were on the firing line, it was the rural newspapers that entered the homes of thousands of mailies in every county in Arkansas and gave them the first news of what their boys were doing. The rural newspaper goes into rural homes like a letter from a loved one, and it naturally grips the readers as nothing else can do.

"There is no gainsaying the power of the rural newspapers. They are feared by wrong-doers far more than they fear the county officials, who in turn have a wholesale respect for a forceful rural newspaper, whose editor has an unlimited field in which to mold and direct the minds of all thinking people interested in the uplift of their community."

WHAT IT MUST PAY FOR FOOD

Feeding Bolshevism in Russia instead of fighting it is causing woe and wrath on the part of people in France, Great Britain and the United States who evidently have not taken the trouble to inform themselves as to the terms on which the proposed benevolence is to be extended.

As plainly notified by President Wilson and Premiers Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Orlando, Dr. Nansen's neutral commission is to have no supplies or distribution in Russia until hostilities on the part of its Government shall have ceased and there has been a complete abandonment of the transfer of troops and military material of all sorts to and within Russian territory.

It is true that in all this the Associated Western Powers do not deny to the Russia the right to choose their own form of government. They do not object even to the Soviet form of Government. But they do insist that whatever form of government Russia may have, it must discontinue hostilities against the nations that are ready to deliver it from famine and pestilence, and this necessarily involves a cessation of the slaughter and oppression which Bolshevism has used to maintain its terrorism at home.

Unless anarchy surrenders on these conditions it will receive no help.—New York World.

T. R. AND W. W.

"In hearing my orations," says Ciero, "the people admire my intellect and my art, and interrupt me with applause"; and Demosthenes replies: "True; indeed! You employ the audience for yourself; I occupy it only with the things of which I speak. Your hearers admire you. My hearers forget me, attentive to my purpose. They praise you, they are too absorbed in what I say to praise me. You are orante, but there is little ornament in my speeches. They are composed of precise, strong, clear reasons which are irresistible. You make the audience cry out, 'Ah, how eloquently he speaks!' I make my audience exclaim, 'Come on and let us march against Philip!'"—Harvey's Weekly.

FEDERAL LAW REDUCES MISBRANDING OF FOODS

Less Deception Than In Any Other General Class of Merchandise; Department of Agriculture Reviews Notices of Judgment Covering Food and Drug Prosecutions.

Washington, D. C.—Reports on more than 6,300 food and drug cases, including both criminal prosecutions and seizures terminated in the Federal courts, have been published in the form of Notices of Judgment since the enactment of the Federal Food and Drugs Act, according to a recent statement of the officials of the Bureau of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, in charge of the enforcement of that law. This number represents only instances of flagrant misbranding or adulteration in which, in the opinion of the officials, it was necessary to prosecute the party responsible or seize the goods in order to check the practice. Thousands of other forms of minor misbranding, say the officials, have been corrected by serving notices on the parties responsible without recourse to formal legal action. The food industries in many instances voluntarily have changed trade practices of long standing.

The violations of the act on which the court actions were based cover nearly every food product from alimentary paste to zwieback, including soft sardines from Maine, as well as spoiled salmon from Washington; frozen oranges from California; as well as sweated grapefruit from Porto Rico. Prosecutions on patent medicines range from so-called "sure cures" for tuberculosis and influenza to candy cathartics and castor oil. In the beverage line, cider as well as champagne grape juice as well as gin, water as well as wine, have been called to the bar—of the Federal courts—to show cause why they should not be poured into the sewer and thus diverted from the alimentary canal.

Misbranding in its various forms is aimed usually to convey the impression that the article is of a higher grade or more expensive than it actually is. As a dishonest clothing merchant will sometimes brand—as all wool—cloth which is a mixture of wool and cotton, so the dishonest food manufacturer or merchant at times tries to pass off his cheaper foods under the name of higher priced ones. Misbranded in many instances to pay a high-branded foods which are not also adulterated may be wholesome and nutritious to the quality or quantity and are inferior price than the articles are worth. As a result of the operations of the Food and Drugs Act there is today much less misbranding in foods than in any other general class of merchandise sold to the public.

The forms of misbranding range from a deliberate false statement as to the nature of the product, as, for instance, labeling a low-grade, cheap coffee with the name of a higher and more expensive grade, such as Mocha or Java, to subtle designs and devices, as the placing on a can of cottonseed oil labeled merely "Salad Oil" the picture of an olive tree and a map of Italy, in order to convey the impression that the product is olive oil from Italy.

Among other forms of misbranding foods may be mentioned the labeling of distilled vinegar as apple cider vinegar; the labeling of macaroni as being of foreign manufacture when it was made in the United States; the labeling of apples as New York apples when they were grown in other States; the labeling of synthetic methyl salicylate as oil of birth; the misbranding of lake herring as white fish; the labeling of preserves as being composed of loganberries and sugar syrup, when the products, actually contained approximately 25 per cent. of glucose; and the labeling of an artificial flavor as pure vanilla extract.

"HOME" IS THE KEY TO HEARTS OF ALL AMERICANS

Investigation of Special Mission Discloses That Home Is Nearest Soldiers' Hearts.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 12.—"Home" is the key to the heart of every man in the A. E. F., according to Benjamin F. Finney, chief secretary of the Army and Navy Department of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew who has just returned from a trip of hundreds of miles through the camps on the other side. He went to France on a special mission to mingle with our soldiers over there with a view to determine whether the Brotherhood of S. Andrew would send more personal workers among them.

"The great love of the American soldiers for Home and the homeland is one of the many things which the French admire in our men. Despite this longing for home, however, there is a wonderful spirit in the Army of Occupation. Even though they all want to come home I have had hundreds of them tell me that if by staying over there just a little longer meant finishing the job right so they would never have to come back, or that those who live after them would never have to come back, they are glad to stay to finish the job. On this same point there is a unanimous opinion throughout the the A. E. F. that the spirit of the ideals for which they came to France should be written into the peace treaty."

"The American soldier has won his way to the hearts of the French people through his love for the French children," says Mr. Finney. "Wherever one goes in France he is sure to come across a crowd of admiring youngsters around an American doughboy. And this is reflected in the French our men speak over there. They have learned a great many of their French phrases from the children and theirs is a child-like French."

Traveling in civilian dress under a military pass issued by order of General Pershing, Mr. Finney had the open sesame to any camp he wished to visit. And in many of them he was the first out and up American civilian thousands of the men had seen for months. He says it was a common occurrence for him to call out "Hello there!" to one of our men and have the answer come back "Bonjour Monsieur". But once they knew he was a real live American just from the States he had a crowd around him in short order.

It was at one of these times, after a special rainy day among rainy days that he was literally coated with mud from head to foot. But this did not prevent a homesick Yank from coming up to him, stroking his hand down the sleeve of Mr. Finney's civilian coat and blurting out, "Say, isn't that a fine suit of clothes." It's the finest suit of clothes I ever saw in my life!"

But France is still very heavy under the war cloud, Mr. Finney says. Everywhere he went he found it almost impossible to get accommodations. So he bunked in with the boys and slept in railway stations, in barns, under Army trucks, any place that afforded shelter. On trains the traveling resembles very much the packing of sardines. The doors are opened and everyone crowds in. Then the doors are shut and one is fortunate if he can find a place to squeeze himself into. Standing room is at a premium and the floor is usually covered. All the seats are jammed with sleepers and those fortunate enough to find floor space very promptly doze off. The trains are usually anywhere up to twelve hours late.

"One is impressed," he says, "by the hugeness of the educational programs set up for the A. E. F. There are several thousand of our men attending the Sorbonne and the University of Paris. In England there are hundreds at Oxford, Cambridge, and the Universities of London, Edinburgh and Glasgow. They are attending art, technical and agricultural schools. Of course some persons are inclined to think these men would rather be coming back home but the truth of the matter is that these are the men who form part of the emergency force that is being kept over there. Those who show an inclination to improve their education are given leave to go to these schools. At the same time they are close at hand if their units should need them.

"In addition to the number of men granted leave to go to these various universities there is the Army school at Bienne. This school is commonly known throughout the A. E. F. as the Khaki College. Here the instructors are the ablest men of the Army and welfare organizations and in addition a large number of specially qualified instructors who were sent over from this country for that sole purpose. The courses range from beginners preparatory schools to full college grades with the widest possible range of technical, agricultural and arts courses."

Washington Planted Trees

The visitor at Mt. Vernon is always struck with the wonderful variety of trees and shrubs which the father of his country planted. The trees and shrubs which the father of his country planted with so much care. All this planting shows quite plainly that he enjoyed the beauties of nature; but he seldom commented on them, at least in his diary. One April day when the shy young leaves were making the world over again, he wrote in diary:

"The flower of the Sassafras was fully out and looked well—an intermixtures of this kind and Red bud I conceive would look very pretty—the latter crowned with the former or vice versa."

Some of our farmers are done planting corn.

That Salvation Army Smile

Several thousand veterans of the Argonne Forest recently entered New York harbor. Among them were several badly wounded Marines. One man, easily distinguished because of a coat sleeve that dangled empty at his side and a Croix de Guerre, was making his way slowly to the waiting ambulance when a Salvation Army girl approached him and offered doughnuts and coffee. "Now I know I am home," he said. "Those doughnuts helped a whole lot over there," and, first crack out of the box when we land, we find more waiting for us. The best thing about the Salvation Army work out near the front line was the smile that accompanied the gift. Those girls had a knack of wrapping up every doughnut and every cup of coffee in a smile. The doughnuts were fine, but the smile—that took the place of powdered sugar." The Salvation Army Home Service Fund Campaign for $13,000,000 opens May 19, to last one week.

Team Work Counts

Team work always counts whether the team is composed of mules or men. This pulling-together spirit is developing rapidly in the country and is certain to get big results.

Shelby County reports the following line-up of county organizations: "On Saturday afternoon, April 26th, a joint meeting of the Executive Committee of the County Agricultural Board, the Fiscal Court and County Board of Education, was held at the Court House. Reports of work accomplished during the past months were submitted by the Home Demonstration and County Agricultural Agents. The County Board of Education voted to present to the County Agricultural Board a loving cup to be used as a trophy in club work."

Even County Fair Boards are beginning to get in line and help boost the club work in some sections of the State. Daviess County reports:

"The Daviess County Fair Association has offered the sum of $300 to be used as prizes for Girls' Club work. Two years ago we had to solicit prizes as well as space for our club exhibit and it is gratifying to note that this very generous offer includes all the space we may want for our exhibit and came quite voluntarily."

Hitch 'Em Up Right

Now that hot weather will soon be here, it is important that teams be hitched up with care. A little thought and care in hitching to plow, harrow or cultivator will save many a sore shoulder or back which might be a source of trouble for weeks to come.

See to it that the line of draft makes the pull come from the hames and not from a badly placed backhand. It is also important that animals are not overloaded during the first hot weather. Watch the animals closely to see how heavily they have to go against their collars and if necessary put another animal in the team.

Keen Interest Shown

Keen interest is being shown by many counties in the State in the Farmers' Community meetings which were mentioned in last week's issue. These meetings of three days each, should be of great value to any neighborhood or county. Full information concerning them can be obtained by writing to the headquarters of the State Development Committee, Board of Trade Building, Louisville.

AFTER SUFFERING A WHOLE YEAR

Mrs. King Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Iola, Kansas.—"I was a constant sufferer from female trouble for about a year. I had pain in back and stomach, in fact all over me, and was all rundown. A friend of mine was cured of the same trouble by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and it gave me health and strength and made a new woman of me. I cannot praise your Vegetable Compound too highly, and you may publish my testimonial as it may be of help to some other suffering woman."—Mrs. IRENE KING, 105 West Campbell Street, Iola, Kansas.

The great number of unsolicited testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory, many of which are from time to time published by permission, are proof of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, in the treatment of female ills.

Every ailing woman in the United States is cordially invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free, ready to bring you health and may save your life.

CARDINAL GIBBONS ENDORSES S. A. DRIVE

Venerable Churchman Expresses Hope That $13,000,000 Will Be Raised.

The following letter was addressed to former Governor Whitman of New York state by Cardinal Gibbons:

"Honorable and Dear Sir—I have been asked by the local Commander of the Salvation Army to address a word to you as National Chairman of the Campaign about to be launched in behalf of the above named organization. This I am happy to do, and for the reason that along with my fellow Americans can citizens I rejoice in the splendid service which the Salvation Army rendered our soldiers and sailor boys during the war. Every returning trooper is a willing witness to the efficient and generous work of the Salvation Army both at the front and in the camps at home. I am also the more happy to commend this organization because it is free from sectarian bias. The man in need of help is the object of their effort, with never a question of his creed or color."

"I trust, therefore, your efforts to raise $13,000,000 for the Salvation Army will meet with a hearty response from our generous public. Faithfully yours,

"J. CARD. GIBBONS."

SOLDIER CHECK-WORKER IS CUT UP IN CINCINNATI

Estill Sanderson of Bethel Ky., who was taken up here last week by Police on Cold Check Charge, gets in trouble in Queen City.

The Cincinnati Post this afternoon says that during an argument with four other soldiers at Main street and Patterson alley, "Dekell" Sanderson, a soldier of Bethel, Ky., was cut in the left cheek. In Maysville Sanderson gave his name as Estill.

It will be remembered that the young man was taken up by police when he appeared at J. C. Everett & Co.'s store and asked that they cash a check for him in the sum of $59. Over a year ago the firm had cashed a check for him for $25 which had been returned unpaid.

The boy was held here by the police until the next day when his father came to Maysville, settled all bills and procured for him his freedom. Sanderson must be a pretty rough sort of soldier and must have gone from here to Cincinnati where he got mixed up with other fighting men and received a cut face.

PEACEFULLY LAID TO REST

Last night the mortal remains of Mr. Charles S. Young were brought to our city over the C. & O. road, and this morning an impressive funeral service was held in St. Patrick's Church, Father Jones officiating. Mr. Young was an old Maysville boy and held in love and esteem by the friends of his youth.

For several years he was engaged in business here and conducted a gent's furnishing store on Second street, but feeling the call to a larger city and having a tempting offer from Chicago, he left here in early manhood for that city where he made good. His mother and sister soon going there to make their home with him. Mr. Young had to an unusual degree, the gift of making friends and their attachment for him was strong and lasting. His life was an open book and he needs no eulogy from us, what better tribute could be paid him than that an elderly man and close friend gave, as he bent over his casket, "Would that he had a son to inherit his nobleness and purity of character."
